The reviewers' comments were detailed and highly constructive. In particular, the request for a fuller account of quality control led us to re-examine the original hourly records, identify and remove gap-filled and malfunction-affected values, and repeat all analyses with methods that account for serial dependence, multiple comparisons, and effect sizes. The comments on causal attribution, WHO guideline averaging periods, the COVID-19 comparison, and the figures and tables substantially improved the rigor and transparency of the paper. We sincerely thank the reviewers and the WSEAS editorial team.
