This was the first time I have submitted a paper to a WSEAS Journal. I am quite impressed with their team. The (three) reviewers have pointed out several remarks that allowed me to improve so much my manuscript. It is remarkable the agility of the review process. More rapid and more objective than I have experienced in other Journals (I am author/co-author of about 100 papers published in more than 20 international Journals). I intend to consider WSEAS Transactions in Heat and Mass Transfer as one of the first choices for submitting papers in this area. I would like to thank WSEAS, especially to the Editor and to the reviewers, for the expedite and rigorous work offered during the review process of my paper.
